

ABOUT THE JUROR

Alexandra Bowers was born and raised in the Sonoran Desert and is a Phoenix-based artist who received her BFA in 2012 from Arizona State University. Inspired by the natural environment, Bowers utilizes imagery collected while exploring to produce wood-burned and mixed-media studies of plants and animals. She has practiced the art of pyrography (the unique process of free-handed drawing into wood with burn marks resulting from the controlled application of a heated object) since 2010. Bowers has showcased her work extensively in Arizona, and across the country, most notably at the Peabody Essex Museum in Salem, Massachusetts. In 2021 Bowers was chosen by the Mesa Contemporary Arts Museum to debut her solo installation “A Murmuration of Found Feathers in Flight.” Currently, Bowers is working on a solo exhibition for Lapis Room Gallery in New Mexico titled “Plant Medicine,” which will debut in the spring of 2025.
